Hello All

Bob Staresinic

Well, I got my wish for snow. It just snowed this past weekend, and I spent a little time shoveling (so I am late writing this!). My back is feeling it, but I am OK as long as I walk funny.

Timothy Snyder presented a very interesting discussion about the Parental Stress Center at the January meeting. I had no idea how many different programs they have and how much they are doing in our neighborhoods. If you want to find out what they are doing, visit them at www.pscfamily.net.

The February meeting is going to include a presentation about what is going on in the Park, including the entry fountain and garden, Heth's Run, and the reservoir. Come on out and find out what is in store for the coming year.

I have been meeting with the Board, Committee chairs and other interested individuals to discuss what is going on with the Club and how we can increase the impact that the Club has on the East End. We are discussing how to make the board more effective, activities and areas to focus our energies on, and how to get more folks involved in the neighborhood. If you have any suggestions or ideas, please let me know.

I look forward to seeing you around the neighborhood.

The 2005 Designers' Show House to Be in Highland Park

The Junior League of Pittsburgh will host the 17th Designers' Show House at 820 North Highland Avenue in the Highland Park neighborhood. Showcasing the decorating talents of more than 15 area designers, the house will open for public viewing from Saturday, April 23, 2005 through Sunday, May 15, 2005.

The site of this event is a gracious three-story Italian Renaissance style mansion built between 1908 and early 1910 to the designs of prominent Pittsburgh architect Paul Irwin. The house was built for Henry S. Stewart, an oil producer, and his wife, Agnes Stewart. Located as it is among the trees and fine lawns of the vicinity, it commands a superb view of the avenue leading to the entrance of Highland Park. The current owners, Scott and Diane Dietrich, have graciously opened their home to the Junior League of Pittsburgh for the 2005 Designers' Show House.

State Representative Joe Preston urges caution when making charitable donations

Legislator offers guidelines for making contributions in light of tsunami clean-up efforts

State Rep. Joe Preston, D-Allegheny, today is urging consumers to use caution when making charitable donations to help those affected by December's Asian tsunamis.

The race to provide relief to victims of these tsunamis has gone global and millions of people are doing everything they can to help, Preston said. "People are donating time, money and other resources to assist in this massive clean-up effort, but it's important to look before you leap when making cash contributions."

Preston, Democratic chairman of the House Consumer Affairs Committee, said to keep the following guidelines in mind when making a donation:

- Obtain and review information about the charity of your choice and learn about where your contribution will go.
- Know your charity – disreputable charities often use a name, symbol or logo associated with a respected charity to scam donors.
- Do not agree to telephone-solicited donations. Legitimate charities will not demand that you commit to a contribution over the phone.
- Demand identification from door-to-door solicitors and collect information on the charity they are promoting.
- Pay by check when contributing. Obtain the charity's address and make all checks out to the charity and not the individual or company collecting the donations.

"Donating to charity is always a gratifying experience and in light of December's disaster, no one deserves to feel cheated," he said. "All I ask is that consumers do a little research to make sure their contributions are going to those devastated by last week's tsunamis and to also protect themselves."

A list of reputable charities can be obtained by visiting www.cnn.com and then clicking on the "World" and "Where to donate" links. Preston said consumers should consider calling the Bureau of Charitable Organizations at 1-800-732-0999 before making contributions.

Highlights of January 20 Meeting

Bob Staresinic & Ollie Rieley

The meeting was called to order at 7:33 pm. Bob Staresinic promised to get the meetings started on time in the future.

Treasurer: There was no Treasurer's Report this month.

President: Bob said Senator Jim Ferlo and Representative Joe Preston Jr. both assisted with DCED funding applications for the Club for 2005. This funding will help the Club to put the Reservoir of Jazz and the Community Festival on this Summer, in addition to funding some other smaller activities.

Zoning: Dell Zeigler, Zoning Committee Chair, reported on a zoning hearing held for the property at the corner of Wellesley and Highland Avenues. The owner is proposing to build two single-family units in the back yard, one of which will replace the existing carriage house. This will increase the number of units on the lot to 11. This does not meet with the density requirements of the lot and a variance is required. Surrounding neighbors have met with the owner and there will be a further hearing at the Zoning Board to determine if the variance is approved. The neighbors and the HPCC are opposed to the increase in density.

Program: Timothy Snyder from the Parental Stress Center spoke and introduced their programs. The Parental Stress Center strives to prevent child abuse and neglect by providing parental education, counseling and intensive family support services including many programs for children. They need volunteers to help out especially with older children. They also accept donations of household goods which they then supply to needy clients. In particular they are looking for large furniture items and things for older children. This year they will celebrate their 30th anniversary. Visit their web site at www.pscfamily.net for more information.

Block Watch: Jan Stayianos, Block Watch Committee Chair reported on the crime statistics in the neighborhood. The police report a 70-80% solve rate. This is due to citizens reporting when they see suspicious activity, either thru calling 911 or filling out Silent Complaint forms. Continue to report all suspicious activity; Silent Complaint forms are available from Jan or the Zone 5 Station House if anyone needs them.

Board of Education: Patrick Dowd spoke about the current situation at the Board of Education, including discussions about Superintendent Thompson and the achievement levels of the students.

PARTY: The HPCC will be having a "Holiday" party in February. Look for details on page 1 of this newsletter.

The meeting adjourned at 9:10 pm.

THE WAY WE WERE...

SOME OF OUR FOLK

Pat Miller

Let's talk about some East Liberty/Highland Park people who were important to our history. There was George Croghan who was one of the greatest of the Pennsylvania traders. By 1760 he was trading with as many as 1,000 Indians in western Pennsylvania. Although he started as a trader, he ended up owning a great deal of land in the East End.

Croghan doesn't have any streets named after him nor does another important early farmer/settler, Caspard Taub. In 1762 Col. Bouquet (a familiar Pittsburgh name) asked Taub to grow food to feed Fort Pitt soldiers in exchange for which he would be given land. He did and ended up being a major landowner in our area. The East Liberty Presbyterian Church at Penn and Highland is built on part of what was once his land.

Although Taub's name doesn't survive, his heirs' names do. His daughter Elizabeth married John Winebiddle, whose father had come here from Germany in 1771 and bought 550 acres of land in what is now Lawrenceville. The Winebiddle family had gotten some of its land from George Croghan and Jacob Roup. Taub's granddaughter, Catherine Winebiddle, married Jacob Roup's son John. Another granddaughter, Barbara Winebiddle, married Jacob Negley, Alexander's son. You remember Alexander—those 1778 signs. Alexander died in 1809 and shortly after his death their house burned down so his widow, Mary Ann, built what we now call "the farmhouse" (near Heberton and Grafton) where she lived until her death in 1829.

In 1795 when Barbara Winebiddle married Jacob Negley, the newlyweds' joint land holdings totaled 200 acres—almost all of the 11th Ward. Jacob was a farmer, surveyor, and engineer and in 1819 he laid out the town which he named East Liberty. Its center was at Penn and Frankstown. In 1808 he built a large home at the northeast corner of Stanton and Negley. North Negley Ave. was planned as the entrance to his home from Penn Ave. That house was torn down in 1903.

In 1848 Jacob's daughter Sarah Jane married a young man named Thomas Mellon who had come from Ireland in 1818 at the age of five and settled in Greensburg. It can be said that young Thomas "married well" since at that point Sarah's family controlled 3,300 acres in East Liberty/Highland Park! Thomas went on to fame and fortune in his own right as a lawyer and judge and his son Andrew went on to become treasury secretary under four presidents. In 1850 Sarah and Thomas built a brick mansion at 401 North Negley. It was torn down in 1950.

A Negley descendant served four terms in Congress, but of all those early East Liberty families the most prominent today is Mellon. If you look in today's telephone book, you will find a few Negleys and Rouns, no Winebiddles, but many Mellons. The Mellons have made substantial gifts to Pittsburgh over the years but perhaps particularly important to us is the East Liberty Presbyterian Church which the Mellon family built at a cost of $4 million and donated to our community in 1935.

Meet The Eastside Neighborhood Employment Center

Shari Paglia

Your East End neighbors need your support. Too many of our City's residents are unemployed. High unemployment leads to increases in crime. With your help, we can put our citizens to work and keep our East End neighborhoods safe.

Here at the Eastside Neighborhood Employment Center (ENEC), we work hard to improve economic and social conditions for Allegheny County residents. We provide workforce development, job readiness training, career counseling and job placements to over 1,000 Pittsburghers every year.

All of these things cost money, and that's where you come in. The ENEC is in dire need of operational support. Your generous contribution will enable us to provide the training and encouragement necessary to build a strong workforce for the region. With your help, we can provide the residents of the East End with valuable employment skills and opportunities.

More than that, we can instill in our residents, especially the young, a desire not merely for employment, but for advancement. Working with community organizations and employers, the ENEC strives to build a stronger local workforce, which benefits everyone.

Indeed, we strive to create opportunities, develop job skills, increase employment, stimulate the economy, lower neighborhood crime and revitalize the City from within. With a wealth of resources and potential in our own backyard, the region's economy should never rely on outsourcing. Please help us put our neighbors to work for us.

Please consider making a donation to the ENEC. The ENEC is a non-profit charitable organization, and any donation you make is tax-deductible. We are happy to accept your donation by cash or check. We greatly value and appreciate your support in whatever capacity.

If you have any questions, feel free to call me at 412-362-8580. I would be more than happy to speak with you. Please help all of us at the ENEC improve the quality of life for East End residents. It cannot happen without you!

Representative Preston gears up for third consecutive term as committee chairman

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29 – State Rep. Joe Preston, D-Allegheny, this week was reappointed Democratic chairman of the House Consumer Affairs Committee.

The appointment, announced Monday by Minority Leader H. William DeWeese, marks the third consecutive term that Preston has served as chairman of the Consumer Affairs Committee. The committee oversees the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission and the Pennsylvania Energy Development Authority.

"I thoroughly enjoy working with both sides of the political aisle to address the needs of consumers and I thank the Democratic leadership for providing me with the opportunity to do that," Preston said.

"Several monumental bills became law this year, including House Bill 30. My colleagues, committee and I put countless hours into this legislation, which is going to establish the most aggressive, comprehensive broadband network deployment plan in the United States."

For the upcoming year, Preston said he's looking forward to drafting initiatives to combat spam e-mail and predatory lending.

"Internet accessibility has become a priority for millions of Americans, but many fall prey to spam," Preston said. "We all pay for these services and deserve to be protected from unsolicited e-mails, especially when our children may not know how to respond when faced with spam."

"My committee and I will also devote much of our time and efforts to researching predatory lending. Across Pennsylvania and the United States, people are losing their homes and their investments because of predatory lenders, appraisers, mortgage brokers and home improvement contractors who use a number of sneaky tactics to exploit people."

Preston will take the oath of office Jan. 4 for his next term in the state House. Preston is also the elected treasurer of the Pennsylvania Legislative Black Caucus, a Port of Pittsburgh commissioner, the governor's representative to the University of Pittsburgh's Board of Trustees and vice chairman of the Allegheny County Democratic Delegation. Preston's 24th Legislative District includes most of Wilkinsburg and a portion of Pittsburgh.

NatureLABcommunity: at the nexus of science, entrepreneurship, and community.

Sal Wilcox

NatureLABcommunity is officially on its way with $10,000 pledge from a Pennsylvania politician. This grant will allow us to build our first greenhouse and import 30 - 36 tons of dirt, as well as all the seeds, tables, benches, and pots for the greenhouse. In short, we have what we need to make a noticeable difference in Uptown. We hope you'll join us in transforming this space into an asset for all Pittsburgh communities. You can support our effort by volunteering, making a cash donation, or buying a brick. See below for complete information. Feel free to contact us at 412.363.7707 for more information.

Background

Education Innovations, Inc. is working to turn a 26,000 square foot vacant lot in Uptown into a premier regional science classroom called NatureLABcommunity. Hosting children K-12 on a year-round basis for science activities during-school, after school, weekends, and during the summer, NatureLABcommunity will also be a center for entrepreneurship incubation, workforce development, and community gathering. NatureLABcommunity will feature 2 greenhouses, a learning pavilion walled with reused shipping container classrooms, a performance space, and a working mini-farm. Keep a look out for Marie's pumpkin patch next fall.

We look forward to breaking ground in late spring as we construct the first greenhouse, as well as import 30 tons of soil to get the site ready for its first growing season. We will host 25 low-income students this summer for an 8-week summer camp focused on energy - its forms, sources, uses, and implications to humans and the environment. We will also accommodate 25 non-scholarship students from all over Allegheny County. Students will animate the existing flower mural with solar energy, build a water entrapment system for irrigation, and work on a plan to make the NatureLAB 75% solar energy dependent. NatureLABcommunity will also host Saturday gatherings that will feature music, science activities, and the food grown on-site.

Request for Proposals/Volunteers

- We are looking for several volunteers/bids for aspects of our NatureLABcommunity project to get ready for summer learning:
- Bricklayer - to install a brick patio and walkways
- Brick Inscriber - to inscribe 200 to 300 bricks
- Excavator - to level ground for construction of greenhouse
- Brick Seller - make NatureLAB a reality by purchasing a brick and selling a brick to a friend or family member.
- Dietician - to partner with us on a General Mills grant proposal

Volunteer Opportunities

- Data Entry: Compile a 2,000 strong mailing list to be used in conjunction with a fundraiser with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra. This concert will feature Dionne

Warwick. Education Innovations, Inc. gets 100% of all the profits from the tickets we sell! We'll host a ticket purchase event at Tazza D'oro soon.

- NatureLAB Lemonade Crew: Raise awareness and money for NatureLABcommunity by selling fresh lemonade at community festivals this summer. We may also have the opportunity to sell lemonade on Saturdays in the Strip District. Volunteer one or more times per month.
- Garden Crew. Join us on Saturdays starting in June. You'll get your hands dirty with planting, weeding, and harvesting. Other activities may include assisting children with science experiments, establishing the site as a farmers' market, or preparing food for sale during activities. If you're a musician, let us know if you'd like to volunteer a community concert.

BUY A BRICK! - SHARE THE VISION!

If you are interested in purchasing a brick for this innovative regional science learning lab, contact Christopher Seymour, Corporate Relations Manager at 412.363.7707. ## Preston: New computer scam of 'modem hijacking' on the rise

House Democratic Consumer Affairs Committee Chairman Joseph Preston said that according to the Federal Trade Commission, modem hijacking through Internet pop-up ads is on the rise.

Specifically, Preston said the theft targets dial-up Internet users, but broadband users who have a telephone line connected to their modem are also vulnerable.

"This scam begins when a consumer clicks on a pop-up ad that promises free entertainment," Preston said. "In some cases, these are very deceitful ads - if you click 'yes' or 'I agree,' the response triggers a software download to your computer which will then automatically dial international phone numbers at random times."

Preston said the following actions can be taken to prevent modem theft:

Request an international block from your phone company. Disconnect your telephone line when your modem is not in use. Before answering online ad questions, carefully read the offer's terms and conditions.

"It's woefully unfair for a consumer to get slammed with a phone bill for thousands of dollars, but by taking these precautions, you can avoid modem hijacking," he said.

If you have fallen prey to modem theft, you may file an online complaint with the Federal Trade Commission by visiting www.ftc.gov.
